

OFFICE HOURS

9

10

3

11

13

14

15

16

17

18

- 1 – Chris Butler, math instructor for most first-year students, famous for his open office door and his mantra, “Math is easy, math is fun!”
- 2 – Erin Kepler, math major and student supplemental instructor, bound for Columbia law school
- 3 – Jeffrey Shuster, biomedical engineering major, taking MATH 122: Calculus II
- 4 – Records of every class and student Chris has taught in his 20+ years at Case
- 5 – Photos of Chris’ wife and children, who frequently join him at campus events
- 6 – Photo from a Case Magazine article about Math Gala, a five-hour studying marathon for finals—the pictures feature Chris playing the tuba in a student/faculty quintet
- 7 – SpongeBob SquarePants slippers, a.k.a. the office slippers
- 8 – Gray felt slippers, a.k.a. the classroom slippers
- 9 – 1998 Top Prof Award from the Mortar Board National Honor Society
- 10 – 2004 Carl F. Wittke Award for Excellence in Undergraduate Teaching
- 11 – Afghan made by Chris’ mother-in-law—the design represents the numbers one to 100 in prime factors by color
- 12 – Mini-fridge stocked with an assortment of pop, the perfect pick-me-up for tutoring sessions
- 13 – Gumball machine loaded with M&Ms
- 14 – Photo of 2004–05 student supplemental instructor team
- 15 – Mental exercise devices for mathochists
- 16 – 1992–93 teaching award from the Undergraduate Student Government
- 17 – Color block clock and Etch A Sketch
- 18 – The adjacent math tutoring center